

'CG' Turns Up After 43 Years

Engraved Turtle Becomes Pet At Fowler Home

This box turtle apparently wasn't tickled to death to have his tummy engraved with "CG 1919" because he's very much alive 43 years after the carving.

The five-inch tortoise, Terrapene Carolina, was discovered by Howard Fowler in his backyard at 1411 N. Ellsworth Ave. The family was amazed to discover the inscription, which probably represents the initials and date on which someone dug out the figures and letters.

The box turtle came as a surprise package in more ways than its sudden appearance on the lawn and the gouged-out letters. Enclosed in the box-like chassis is a head, beautifully mottled in vivid yellow and brown, amazingly powerful feet and an unexpectedly bland nature. Even when teased, it refuses to bite. When it does open its jaws, it does so in a way that makes the Fowlers think the turtle has been fed by human hands. It has refused packaged turtle food, but Mrs. Fowler is experimenting with hamburger upon the recommendation of a biology teacher.

Biology instructors at Salem Senior High School say that box turtles live upwards of 100 years and have less tendency to bite than snapping turtles, which though larger, are shorter-lived.

The Fowler girls, Rebecca, 7, and Bonnie Sue, 5, have mixed feelings over the nature prize.

11 Injured In Train Crash

None Hospitalized In Ravenna Mishap

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Three cars of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger train were knocked off the rails by the derailment of a passing freight train today. Eleven persons were injured, but none was hospitalized.

One passenger car was knocked virtually on its side, the second was tilted at a 45-degree angle, and the third was tilted only slightly.

M. S. Compton of Akron, a passenger in the third car, said he was awakened by a jolt and shortly afterward saw a porter being carried out the door of the car ahead. He said he saw another man carried out a window.

Everyone in his sleeping car remained calm, Compton said.

The passenger, which had left Washington at 9:20 p. m. Friday bound for Cleveland, apparently was traveling slowly through downtown Ravenna when the accident happened about 7:30 a. m. (Eastern Daylight Time).

The freight train, bound from Lorain to New Castle, Pa., left a pattern of about eight cars jacked-knifed along the right of way.

Railroad officials said it appeared a car derailed near the middle of the freight train hit the passenger. It gouged the side of the passenger's engine before knocking the cars from the track.

There were about 30 persons aboard the passenger, which was due in Akron half an hour after the accident.

This train is one of the last two Washington - to - Cleveland trains. A B&O application to discontinue the two trains is pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The injured were released after treatment at Robinson Memorial Hospital.

6th Surrenders In Theft Ring Probe

James Dinsio of Franklin Ave. turned himself in to Mahoning County deputies at 10:45 a. m. Friday, bringing to six the number of men held in connection with a widespread burglary ring that netted loot worth more than $100,000 dollars.

Investigation is continuing into what district law enforcement agents call "one of the biggest burglary operations ever carried on in eastern Ohio. The thefts are believed to have been in at least six or seven different adjacent counties.

Dinsio's three brothers, Amil A., 26, of near Greenford; William D., 35, of near Salem, and Vincent M., 39, of Washingtonville, and Charles Mulligan, 28, of Youngstown and Harry Barber, 21, of near Greenford were arrested earlier this week.

James Dinsio's house was searched and officers of the Mahoning County Sheriff's department and Salem police found loot suspected to have been stolen from Williamson's Drug Co. in Canfield and the Ohio Edison plant at Warren.

Two Drivers Cited After Collisions

Two rear-end collisions resulting in minor damage were investigated Friday by the Lisbon post of the State Highway Patrol.

Filmore R. Eason, 41, of Lisbon, and Stuart Wilson, 41, of Wellsville, were cited for failing to stop within the assured clear distance in both accidents. No one was injured in either incident.

Eason, traveling on Route 62 two miles east of Alliance, struck a car driven by Evelyn Wachsmuth, 24, of Alliance Friday afternoon at 2 as she was turning onto a secondary road.

The second accident occurred at the junction of Routes 7 and 30 at 10 a. m. when an auto operated by John P. Flaherty, 21, of Waterford, Conn. Both were traveling south on Route 7 when the collision occurred.

CITED AFTER COLLISION

Mary Ann Mancuso, 17, of 244 Oak St., Leetonia, was arrested for failure to stop within the assured clear distance after she was involved in a two-car mishap at 3:46 p. m. Friday.

According to city police, she failed to see a car driven by Harvey Goodman, 38, of 610 W. State St., which had stopped on E. State St. for a traffic light at the intersection of Broadway and E. Pershing St. at 12:15 p. m.

In another mishap Friday, cars driven by Arthur H. Vaughn, 61, of 989 Highland Ave. and Walter Thomas, 27, of RD 1, Leetonia, collided at Broadway and E. Pershing St. at 12:15 p. m.

Astronaut To Hold News Conference Sunday

Was Carpenter Confused on Final Lap? Space Experts Seem Unable To Agree

GRAND TURK, B.W.I. (AP) — Was astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter confused, preoccupied or simply reflective during his last whirl around the globe? Space officials seem unable to agree on an answer.

As they weighed today this and other questions which arose during the 37-year-old naval officer's thrilling space journey, he had a date to go skindiving with other astronauts off this tiny West Indies island.

Then there were to be more questions about his three-orbit flight, more debriefing, with astronauts John H. Glenn Jr., Walter M. Schirra Jr., Virgil I. Grissom and Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. joining in the interrogation.

Carpenter himself will have a chance to answer questions about his condition during flight when he returns to Cape Canaveral Sunday for a welcome home celebration and a news conference. On Monday he will fly to his hometown of Boulder, Colo., for another welcome.

The question of Carpenter's condition during his last orbit arose late Thursday night, several hours after he had been plucked from his tiny lift raft in the Atlantic 250 miles beyond his target landing area. The 17 Project Mercury tracking stations got together on their world-girdling radio network for a post-flight critique.

The Kauai, Hawaii, station said Carpenter sounded tired and his voice was weak as he flew over. "He was quite concerned about his capsule attitude and therefore, on several occasions, when Capcom (the capsule communicator) tried to get him on his retrosequence, he kept returning to what he was doing."

"We told him to get ready for the retrosequence and he started doing something else. There was some confusion whether he understood what the order was. "We had the impression that he was very confused about what was going on. But it was very difficult to assess whether he was confused or preoccupied."

The Woomera, Australia, station came in to say, "We also feel the astronaut was acting somewhat tired on the last pass." It said his voice was weak.

When he was asked to comment later on the critique, the medical expert who monitored Carpenter's flight said the astronaut obviously was tired. But Dr. Stanley T.

Bill Would Cut Wheat, Feed Grain Stocks

Similar Proposal Previously Okayed By House Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats overcame stubborn Republican opposition and passed a farm bill containing most of the mandatory production controls sought by President Kennedy in an effort to reduce surplus wheat and feed grain stocks.

The vote Friday after a week of debate was 42 to 38 with one Republican joining 41 Democrats. Eight Democrats voted with 30 Republicans against the measure. It now goes to the House, where a similar bill has been approved by the Agriculture Committee and awaits floor action.

Put To Farmer's Vote

The new program would be put to a vote of farmers, with a two-thirds majority needed for adoption. The main feature of the bill is higher price supports and substantially reduced production quotas from wheat, corn, grain sorghum and barley.

If growers rejected the program, production would be unlimited but price supports would be substantially lower and the secretary of agriculture would be authorized to dump some of the present surplus stocks on the market, further depressing prices.

Other features of the bill: —Increased penalties for sale of excess production of these crops.

—A 25-acre exemption from production controls for farmers raising wheat or feed grains for their own livestock.

—Payments to wheat growers who divert wheat land for three years.

—A $10-million pilot program for assisting in establishment of recreation facilities on land removed from crop production. Kennedy also sought controls on oats and rye, but the Senate exempted those crops from the bill.

GOP Blasts Bill

Republicans said the bill will lead to government regimentation of the meat, dairy, livestock and poultry industries.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., predicting farmers will reject the program, said it would mean higher food prices and lower farm income unless there were heavy new government subsidies.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., called it "a giant step toward a planned economy."

Even Sen. Milton Young of North Dakota, the only Republican to vote for the omnibus measure, said he opposed the new wheat and feed grain provisions.

The administration got nowhere in its bid for lower dairy marketing quotas accompanied by higher price supports.

The committee rejected all dairy proposals, leaving the program as it is now. And an attempt to write in higher supports for milk producers who voluntarily hold production to this year's level was defeated 70 to 13.

Overpass OK Awaited June 6

State Official To Check Site Plans

Mayor Dean Cranmer reported today that representatives from the Ohio Department of Highways will be in Salem Wednesday, June 6, to either approve or disapprove site plans made by Rackoff Associates of Columbus for the overpass project at the W. State St. grade crossing.

Melvin Rackoff, head of the engineering firm hired by the city to draw up plans for the overpass, and that firm's chief bridge designer, Karl E. Eriksson, also will be here that day.

Cranmer says he has been notified that the Federal Bureau of Public Roads will not send any of its men to Salem to inspect the site plans. They say that if the state highway department gives its approval of the plans, that will satisfy them, the mayor stated.

Rackoff said that upon approval of the site plans by the state, his firm will have the engineering plans for the overpass completed within 40 days. These plans had been approved tentatively by the state, but since that time there have been a few changes made in the plans, the mayor said.

If everything moves on schedule, it is hoped to have the overpass project under contract by some time in September.

Eriksson said it will take approximately six months to build the bridge section of the overpass. The total project, including construction of the approaches, is expected to take about nine months, he stated.

The federal government would pay most of the estimated $1.3 million cost of the project, with the state, Pennsylvania Railroad, the city, and possibly the county sharing the rest.

Labor May Press For 35-Hour Week

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, says he expects the merged labor movement to very seriously consider a nationwide campaign to reduce the standard work week from 40 to 35 hours.

Such a campaign, Meany said Friday, likely will be deliberated by the AFL-CIO Executive Council when it meets in August.

He told the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, "I am of the opinion that a reduction of the work week, with the same take-home pay, would have a tremendous impact."

Meany first endorsed the 35-hour week at another convention here last week. He is at odds with the Kennedy administration and Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg, who feels that the present 40-hour week is best for the nation's economy.

Said Meany, to cheering delegates: "I do not like to disagree with Mr. Goldberg any more than Dave Dubinsky (president of the ILGWU) does. But I feel that we have got to look at this question of how many hours do we work."

Dubinsky's union already has the 35-hour week. He has said he favors it on a nationwide basis.

Meany said he does not have "the confidence in American management to believe that an increase in their profits would solve the unemployment problem."

He criticized the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) telling the garment workers: "Their proposal is, the way to meet this problem of ending unemployment and spurring economic growth is to amend the tax laws so that business will get greater profits, and to curb the power of labor unions."

There were four mysterious explosions around the area of Bernauerstrasse, scene of many dramatic escapes.

West Berlin afternoon papers speculated they were the work of an East Berlin resistance group. Several times wooden screens, put up to stop people from the West peeking over the wall, have gone up in flames in the neighborhood.

West police said they did not know who set off the blasts.

Bernauerstrasse is one of the most heavily fortified stretches of the 25-mile wall. Behind the wall are coils of barbed wire, a double row of steel antitank barriers and finally huge screens to block the view into East Berlin.

The atmosphere was very tense along the wall as the Communist regime gave a military funeral to Peter Goering, 21-year-old East German policeman who was shot dead in a gun battle with West

A VALIANT FATHER who considers himself "lucky" even though crippled by multiple sclerosis is Ray Liepper of E. 3rd St., named "Father of the Year" in the current MS campaign and a producer of useful leather products in his spare time.

Named Multiple Sclerosis 'Father of Year' Leather Craft Is Hobby Of Salem Man, MS Victim

"I figure I'm lucky!" That's Ray Liepper speaking, a spunky man disabled by multiple sclerosis and named "Father of the Year" for northern Columbiana County in the current MS drive running through Father's Day.

At his home at 886 E. 3rd St., Liepper has confiscated what started out to be his wife's towel cabinet and set up headquarters for his current hobby of making intricately worked leather goods, particularly ladies' purses, men's briefs, and occasionally, belts and ornamented ashtrays.

RAY MOVES ABOUT with the aid of his hand-painted Mexican cane bought on a tour of the Southwest. An ardent advocate of "see-America-first," Ray and his wife have been to New England, Florida and California. "America has enough beauty for me," he says, when his friends announce a jaunt to some distant land.

A 19-year veteran of the Deming Pump Co., Liepper was forced into retirement by his illness two years ago when he was 50. Although MS struck him in the 1930's, he kept on his job as inspector at the plant until 1960.

He shifted from a photographic hobby to leather working just a year ago and in that time has produced 30 handbags and numerous other items. He quit photography when he learned he was allergic to darkroom chemicals.

The products he turns out are artistically ornamented in floral or other feminine motifs or in masculine designs on men's goods. It takes about three days to cut, trim, decorate, stitch and add accessories to a purse.

Liepper expresses his gratitude to Mrs. James Giffin, who gave him pointers on leather working when he first began. She had experience guiding war veterans in craftwork at the rehabilitation center in Danville, Ky., and her advice was a spur to Ray's efforts.

Ray's wife, Rhea, and his two children and four grandchildren are a great source of pride to him. His son, Jack, is with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. His daughter is Mrs. Ray Snyder.

Mrs. Darrell Fadely, county MS chairman, says Liepper was given his current title because of his devoted performance as a husband and father.

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS, she points out, is a disease of the central nervous system. "It is not a mental disease, nor is it contagious."

When the disease hits, patches of myelin, material that coats the nerves, disintegrate, causing interference with the transmission of nerve impulses. This change results in malfunctions such as inability to talk, walk, tie a shoe lace, open a door or other actions dependent upon the health of the central nervous system.

MS is a progressive disease, usually getting worse from year to year. Many victims soon need the aid of a cane, then crutches, eventually a wheelchair. No wonder friends and neighbors of Ray Liepper admire his fortitude when he calls himself "lucky."

- We believe the whole Bible from Genesis 1-1 to Revelation 22:21, as the verbally inspired and infallible Word of God. (II Peter 1:20-21).
- We believe that Jesus Christ was born of Mary the virgin and is the Son of God and God the Son. (Isa. 7:14, John 1:1, Luke 1:35).
- We believe that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures, the just for the unjust that He might bring us to God. (Rom. 3:24; Eph. 1:7; I Peter 1:3-5).
- We believe that He arose from the grave the third day according to the Scriptures. (Act 1:9-10; I Cor. 15:1-19).
- We believe that He only, is the great High Priest and we need not the intercession of any man, but that Christ ever liveth to intercede for us. (Heb. 7:25; 9:24).
- We believe that Christ will come again in person, bodily, visibly to establish His Kingdom on the earth. (Rev. 19:11-16; I Thess. 1:10, Acts 1:8-10).
- We believe that to be saved, the soul must be born again — "Ye must be born again." (John 3:3-7).
- We believe that every truly born soul should declare his faith by the act of baptism (Immersion in Water) setting forth the Lord's death, burial and resurrection. (Rom. 6:3-6).
- We believe that the church is a body of baptised believers whose only mission is, not to "reform the world," but to preach and teach the Gospel to the individual soul. (Matt. 28:19-20).
- We believe in the eternal security of the saved soul. (John 6:37-40, 10:27-30; Rom. 8:1, 8:30-39; I Peter 1:5).

Summing it all up, we believe in a supernatural Bible, which tells of asupernatural Christ, who had a supernatural birth, who spoke supernatural words, who performed supernatural miracles, who lived a supernatural life, who died a supernatural death, who rose in supernatural power, who ascended in supernatural splendor, who intercedes as a supernatural priest, and who will one day return in supernatural glory to establish a supernatural kingdom on the earth.

Confident Living

World In Need of Prayer Groups

A young woman felt deeply concerned about the state of the world today. The suburban community where she resided had fine houses and beautiful streets. She was happily married, well-fixed financially, a popular member of the country club set and much admired for her fine game of golf. She was, you might say, on easy street.

But from her reading she was well aware that much was wrong with the world. Moreover, she had become increasingly uneasy about various goings-on right there in her own community: Things that would hardly bear the light of day. She began thinking hard, which is a good thing to do, although quite unusual. And after much thinking she did something.

She did not write a letter to her Congressman. She did not go to the Women's Club and propose a resolution. She did something much more dynamic. She had a talk with her next door neighbor. She said, "Mary, I know you are worried about the way things are in the world these days, same as I am. I feel we ought to do something about it. I've hesitated to suggest this, because you may think I'm being foolish and give me the laugh. But what do you say to our getting together once a month to pray for the world?"

MARY LOOKED AT HER, startled and serious, taking the idea in. Then she answered, "Let's make it once a week."

So these two fashionable young women met regularly and prayed about the world. Soon they thought of others who might like to join them. Gradually they brought in Genevieve, Helen, Virginia, Frieda, Marguerite. . . . Before long they had quite a prayer group.

Then one day after their prayers for the world one girl said, "I wonder if I can bring up something personal. As some of you know, there has been trouble between Jim and me. . . ." And she asked if there could be a moment of prayer for her and her husband. By this time praying together had brought these women into an atmosphere of mutual trust, respect and love. The group prayed for the troubled couple and continued doing so until the rift in their marriage was healed. From then on they shared in prayer the personal problems of others in the group.

Then some of the husbands joined the circle. And little by little the influence of this small dedicated fellowship permeated the whole community. A second prayer group formed, and a third. A new spiritual force had come into being, radiating in all directions.

The young matron who started all this demonstrates what I call the "Here am I — send me" kind of faith response. The expression is from the Book of Isaiah who relates:

"IN THE YEAR THAT King Uzziah died, I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphims. . . . And one cried unto another, and said, 'Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of his glory.'"

So great was the impact of this vision that Isaiah had an overwhelming sense of his own unworthiness. He cried out, "Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips. . . ." But one of the seraphims took a live coal from the altar and touched it to the prophet's lips as a sign of spiritual cleansing.

Then Isaiah heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?"

AND ISAIAH who had this vision and had been cleansed gave an answer worthy of a true child of God. He did not suggest that the Lord organize a convention and elect committees to issue pronouncements! He said simply: "Here am I. Send me."

The world today is much in need of men and women who will personally do something about wrong conditions. These crisis times call for people who will respond to challenges with a positive "Here am I — send me" and then wade in.

Such people can bring about big changes in local situations. And that is not all. They thereby set in motion forces that make for corresponding changes in the world at large. It's still true that a few dedicated people can change the world.

CLEAR TRACK—An old winter problem of railroaders — frozen switches — may be licked with a new device hanging over Santa Fe track in picture above. It's an infrared heater, fueled either by natural gas or propane, which warms the switch without warming the surrounding air. At first sign of snow or ice, the heater turns on automatically and keeps going until the storm is over. The railroad plans to install the heaters in problem areas in Arizona and New Mexico.

DAD'S GRADUATION

It wasn't Dad who burned the midnight oil . . . or crammed for exams . . . or struggled with term papers . . . or won a letter in baseball . . . or a prize in home economics.

Dad just wrote the checks . . . and the encouraging letters . . . and boasted to the office force about his "kids" in school.

But this is really Dad's graduation. For he planned this day many years ago. And all these years he has struggled to give his boy and girl the kind of an education he never had.

Something else he has given them—something he did have; a sound Christian faith, manifested in loyal devotion to his Church's worship and work.

Better than a diploma is Dad's reward today; the reverent, joyous certainty that, not only in their education, but equally in their spiritual development, he has recognized the needs of his children . . . and has seen them through.

Are you planning your children's future—every Sunday?

Adventure Turns Into Routine

Malcolm Scott Carpenter orbited the earth three times Thursday with little more discomfort than he could have expected during a 250-mile auto journey.

Except for the excitement at the end, when the Aurora 7 spacecraft overshot the landing area by several hundred miles, our fourth astronaut to explore outer space had what now can be thought of as a routine experience.

This looms large in popular though, this idea of space exploration becoming routine experience. It has been only a few ticks of the celestial clock since a voyage across the ocean was a wild adventure. It has been within a lifetime since Charles A. Lindbergh soloed across the Atlantic.

Many of us have seen the entire history of the airplane and the automobile. All of us are looking forward to the first deep penetration of outer space. Orbital flights so far have been scarcely outside the earth's immediate environment. They are only the beginning.

Probably the most frequent comment

Thursday during the Carpenter orbits was, "This will be so routine in a few more years that everybody will be doing it."

We question that. Not everybody is flying in airplanes or driving automobiles. But we do not question the idea that space exploration is going to be taken for granted as surely as wheeled vehicles, internal combustion engines, steam-driven trains, propeller-driven planes, then jet-propelled planes were taken for granted as soon as the novelty was gone.

In no time, we'll be looking at specks of light in the midnight sky and wondering what the astronauts up there were doing when the light from their craft started on its long journey through intervening space. And it won't be long after that until we won't even bother to look up. We'll take it for granted the space explorers are up there, along with the moon and the stars. For them it will be as much a way of life as our own dull routines here on earth.

You can bet on it.

How the Doctors Got Involved

Unless all medical doctors have lost the sense of humor that helped them through the tight places of their lifetimes, some now are ducking the rocks and dead cats of the Medicare controversy and wondering if this is how old Doc Zorba got started on the Ben Casey show.

When people talk about the high cost of dread of long terminal illness, they aren't talking about doctor bills but bills for hospital care.

When politicians go prospecting for the golden votes in "them thar bills" they aren't talking about doctor bills but hospital bills.

The Kennedy administration's Medicare proposal never even mentions doctors. How did they get into this fight?

What is turning the modern counterpart of the well-loved family doctor into an arm-waving propagandist, telling the world those terrible men in Washington mustn't be allowed to socialize medicine socialization never has been mentioned by anyone except the doctors themselves?

THERE'S NO MORE socialism in schemes to help people pay the always high and sometimes exorbitant cost of medical care, outside doctors' fees, than there was in the original Social Security plan to underpin the nation's buying power with old-age benefits and survivors' insurance. No one is suggesting that the federal government own the hospitals or even run them.

All that's being talked about is a plan to help people over 65 who are eligible for Social Security payments to become eligible for certain hospital benefits too, if they run into trouble. This may be wrong-headed but it's not socialistic.

What are doctors and the American Medical Association so fired up about?

The answer, such as it is, must be given in two parts. The first part may not have occurred to many doctors, their families

Good Music

The curtain is never drawn on Salem High School graduation activities before the school's outstanding choral department presents its spring concert. It is always an entertaining highlight of the season, as was last evening's program in the school gymnasium.

The talented Robed Choir, Mixed Chorus, Girls Glee club and Senior Girls Ensemble filled the room with melodious and thrilling songs, enjoyed by another near-capacity crowd.

The well-trained young voices of the students reflect the able coaching of the vocal department's instructor, F. Edwin Miller, and the boys and girls own appreciation of good music.

Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Census shows American homes have more TV sets than phones. That's understandable. These days people are determined not to be interrupted by a phone call at the most dramatic moment of an Alfred Hitchcock mystery, a cowboy fight or a battle for top money in panel quiz.

There are folks who have had phones removed because they rang so often during a favorite TV program.

Telephone is highly useful, but you can't twist the dial on it and get a ball game, wrestling bout or fight between cavalry and Indians. You may be pleased to get a phone call from Cousin Frisby, but not if you have to walk out on Boris Karloff.

It's painful to rush to phone during "Highway Patrol" and discover it's somebody who wants to know if you would like to buy a ticket to the firemen's ball?

Mortimer Topblower nearly tore down his own phone wires the other night when he was close to picking mystery killer, hurried to a phone call and got the words "Sorry, I guess I called the wrong number."

Big advantage telephone has over TV in public appeal these days is that it gives no commercials, and no detailed hospital operations. You can always use phone without getting advice on how to clean teeth or wax a floor. That's a break.

Telephone once meant a sort of companionship and ready touch with outside world, but since TV came in, putting Broadway, Hollywood, Las Vegas, the White House, etc., into our living room, it has lost its warmth.

The Greens Seem a Little Rough This Season

Reds' Appeal to Youth

By Dr. GEORGE S. BENSON

News from Moscow often reveals fresh evidence of Communist appeal to enough young people to provide sufficient leadership to insure the future of their system.

(The security of any system is in its youth; this is true even of America.)

An example of this news was a recent New York Times News Service dispatch to the effect that Sergei Pavlov had urged the Congress of Komsomol (Young Communist League) which he heads to step up athletic propaganda in the struggle for young minds. Russian guarantees of religious freedom, he insisted, do not apply to children but only to adults "who can answer for their actions."

THE SAME CONCERN for children is being shown wherever Communism hopes to make gains in the struggle for world dominion.

(This also is true even in America.) According to Herbert Romerstein in his book, Communism and Your Child, Pavlov is a vice president of World Federation of Democratic Youth. This organization has an Italian president and a French general secretary, and according to Romerstein "a vice president's position is also being saved for an American young Communist," whose name when he is appointed will probably be kept secret.

Pioneer's Paradise

By HARRIET STIX

NEW YORK — For a European, New York is a pioneer's paradise. It is one of the few cities left in the world where he can rough it.

Where else, for example, will he find stores whose proprietors are, presumably, so disinterested in money that they not only don't bother to learn his language but couldn't care less about finding some one who does?

Americans are used to almost too much loving care in Europe. Here visitors are on their own from the moment they leave the customs shed.

Still, our government has lately begun to recognize that tourism is good business. The word is being spread across the globe that after all America is a nice place to visit.

THIS IN ITSELF is quite a new idea for us. Mrs. Anita Daniel points out that until very recently we have assumed that anyone arriving from Europe must be an immigrant. The newcomer who said he was just here for a holiday was greeted with a look of disbelief. Who could possibly want to go home again to France or England or Italy after he'd seen New York?

Mrs. Daniel is presently involved in writing a guide-book to the United States, to be published this autumn in several languages. In Europe, this will undoubtedly make life a lot easier for visiting foreigners and clear up a lot of their misconceptions before they get here.

Mrs. Daniel is the author of a book on New York which, in three languages, was a best seller on the Continent. It manages to be both amusing and accurate, which is quite a feat for a guide-book.

MRS. DANIEL is herself a European who saw America and stayed. Born in Romania, she was raised in Paris and lived for quite a while in Geneva. In Europe she worked as a journalist. She was lucky enough to have a brother who was also head of a picture agency. He gave her her first assignment, a trip round Europe visiting all the kings and queens.

Her job: To "distract the king while the photographer took 'special' pictures." It was, she says, "a beautiful assignment." After that, of course, no doors were closed to her—having started at the top, obviously she could get in anywhere.

Here she is the correspondent for several Swiss newspapers. Mrs. Daniel has written guides to Europe and a biography of Albert

Schweitzer for children which prompted one 11-year-old to write that it was his favorite book, "and congratulations for a job well done."

LATELY MRS. DANIEL has been catching up on the parts of the country she didn't already know. She's just back from Williamsburg, which she wants to include because most Europeans have no idea that there's anything older than last year's automobile in this country. Before that she was in Alaska. ("I don't think so many Europeans will go there. But I always wanted to.")

Besides straight travel information, Mrs. Daniel intends to give her readers "little advice," to point out some of the unexpected aspects of our life. Thus:

That lovely lady in her even lovelier mink coat that you see strolling down Fifty Avenue may shortly be back in her kitchen doing the dishes.

That exalted executive will go home to cut the lawn and is quite capable of repairing the garage doors.

The college student works summers as a waiter.

NO ONE IS afraid of the police. The great simplicity even of high ranking persons.

Mrs. Daniel points out that in this country a woman can travel alone and not be bothered, though "some of them may be sorry about this." There are almost no beggars—"just a committee ladies asking for money."

Mrs. Daniel believes that the "niceness" of the man in the street, the simplicity and "cosiness" of life here, have not been recognized. "The films have done great harm," she believes. She wants to stress the positive things. "After all," she points out, "I am writing for people who are not going to be here forever."

So They Say

There can be little reasonable doubt that, ultimately, we will come into contact with races more intelligent than our own. It may be the most devastating event in the history of mankind. The rash assertion that "God made man in His own image" is ticking like a time bomb at the foundations of many faiths. — Writer Arthur C. Clarke.

Both sides will be decimated. Once a war like this starts, I believe that there will be few restraints.—A to m i c scientist Ralph Lapp, on a U.S.-Russian war.

Herbert Romerstein keeps up with these Communist youth activities. As a lad of 15 in Brooklyn, N.Y., interested in politics, he joined the Communist Party and was put into youth activities.

Now 30 years old and having long since broken with the party, he spends much of his time following the intricate mazes of front activity where youth are enlisted for Red dirty work. His erstwhile friends in the party look upon him as an informer, possibly because he has assisted the F.B.I. and testified before investigating committees of Congress.

Mr. Romerstein has written his book to show how the Communist world conspiracy has been exploiting and manipulating young people to further its interests.

Establishing this as an important current goal of the Communists, he quotes the American Communist official, Gus Hall, who reported to American Communists the results of the big Moscow conventions of November 1960 and January 1961.

HALL TOLD U.S. comrades that Moscow policy now requires a new "grassroots movement for peace and disarmament" involving literally millions of Americans, including youth and even children. Hall pointed to an increased Communist activity in the colleges and then ordered "higher priority for working with youth in all fields of endeavor."

One is amazed to find in Romerstein's account how much already has been done. If the Communists are allowed to proceed under these new directives, there is going to be plenty of mischief afoot.

Interesting also are Romerstein's descriptions of his experience with American Youth for Democracy, a vehicle for carrying the "line" to young people. In fact, it was in AYD that he served his apprenticeship before being admitted to the Communist Party. He was then assigned for America, as it supported Henry Wallace for president. After a couple of years he was kicked out of the party for "asking too many questions."

ROMERSTEIN'S book spotlights the youth front, "Advance," set up in 1960 in New York City for "peace" activity. This organization apparently had some success in drawing from both Young Republicans and Young Democrats of New York. As time went on, it capitalized on anti-HUAC activity arising from the San Francisco incident, on "sit-ins" and "freedom riders," on peace marches and disarmament demonstrations, and on pro-Castro sentiment. Romerstein wants Americans to stop these front activities wherever they are found.

He has attended some of the European youth festivals as an anti-Communist, despite Communist attempts to bar him as an unfriendly delegate and to control everything else to their advantage.

Red indoctrination of children in summer camps and in public schools, as revealed by Romerstein, suggests that parents cannot be too careful in following the influences upon their children.

Communists have tried every avenue in the past, and they will step up their efforts again under their new and higher priorities if we let them.

Japan Applies Brakes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Booming Economic Growth Being Restrained

TOKYO — Japanese economic growth, which over the past three years has amazed the world, is to be forcibly restrained by the government this year.

A sharp decline in Japan's international balance of payments, rising prices on the home market, and an early election for the Upper House of the Diet, have convinced Prime Minister Hayata Ikeda's conservative Liberal-Democratic party that at least a temporary halt in Japanese industrial expansion is necessary.

As a result, government planning is directed toward keeping economic growth in 1962 to about 5.4 per cent. This compares with 18 per cent in 1959, 14 per cent in 1960 and 13 per cent in 1961. (Britain's rate of economic growth recently has been about two per cent while many American economists consider President Kennedy's target of a four per cent annual growth over-ambitious.)

MOST JAPANESE seem to be relieved that the government is transferring the emphasis from economic growth to attaining economic stability. Both the ordinary Japanese and many industrialists were beginning to be worried by signs that the extremely high rate of economic growth was bringing about a dangerously overheated economy. In 1961, for example the cost of living in Tokyo rose by nine per cent—equivalent to the increase for the preceding five years.

Housewives had to pay more for such staple items of food as bean curd, bread, milk and butter. Workers had to pay higher train and bus fares. Companies had to pay more to borrow money from the banks—and most Japanese companies depend for at least 60 per cent of their capital on borrowed money.

Prime Minister Ikeda, with accustomed bluntness, said that "part of the blame" for rising prices must be borne by the government, "but the entire nation is also responsible." This effort to apportion blame resulted in Mr. Ikeda facing a revolt within his own party. Director of the Economic Planning Agency Aichihiro Fujiyama, engaged in some blunt speaking of his own and told the government to re-examine its whole economic policy.

A HURRIED CABINET meeting was called and it was announced that economic growth would be soft-pedaled and measures to bring about price stability stressed.

This it was felt, would put the Liberal-Democrats in a better position to fight the forthcoming election for the Upper House.

However, this does not mean that Japan is in danger of a serious recession. Although small business has been adversely affected by tight money policies, the average wage-earner has "never had it so good." In the spring labor offensive just ended, unions representing workers in transportation, shipbuilding, electrical products and textiles gained wage increases averaging $8 a month. Although the gap between annual wage increases and annual increases in the cost of living was sharply narrowed last year, wages over the last decade have increased at an average annual—far above the increase in living costs.

AT THE SAME time Japanese are being given more leisure time—and more ways of spending it. Japan now has its own versions of America's "Disneyland" springing up beside ancient shrines in Nara and Nagoya, a pleasure boat industry has developed from scratch in the past three years; a golf boom which has added 200 courses to land-short Japan's recreational facilities in the past five years is still accelerating, and travel in their own country by Japanese is expected to set new records in 1962.

Despite difficulties in balancing export earnings and import expenditures in 1961—Japan spent $5,460,000,000 on imports, but earned only $4,341,000,000 from exports—Japan has been able to maintain virtually full employment. In fact, there is an acute labor shortage in the younger age groups and among skilled workers. There were 2.5 jobs for every high school graduate coming onto the labor market in 1961 and the proportion of jobs to labor was even higher this April—the graduation month.

So acute is the labor problem in such industries as transistors, electronics, watches and clocks and textiles that labor scouts are sent around the nation's high schools well before graduation to sign up suitable students. In many cases, cadetship bonuses are paid students to join a specific firm.

INDUSTRY HAS been frankly scared by the prospect of tougher foreign competition on the Japanese domestic market arising from the steady lowering of trade barriers. In addition, the trend towards regional economic blocs such as the European Common Market has raised the fear that Japanese goods will be uncompetitive unless they have a very great price advantage.

Japanese industry has decided to fight these two spectres by investing enormous sums ($10 billion in 1961 alone) in re-equipping, rationalizing and modernizing its plants. In textiles, electronics, automobiles, appliances and some chemicals Japan literally has new industries built from the ground up. This it is hoped, will make Japanese goods more than competitive, whether in foreign markets or at home.

To put the economy on a sound basis, the economic planners now believe there must be a sharp and continued expansion in exports while keeping new domestic investment and imports to a minimum. In the United States, Europe, Latin America and Australia, Japan is now launching one of the biggest export drives in its history. If successful, economic experts in Tokyo believe it will set off another round of amazing economic expansion, making the present pause a mere breathing spell.

Do other people have this trouble with seeds? Friends and relatives give me seeds in little bottles and sacks but when it's time to plant them I cannot remember what they are. Just in time, the lady I cultivate with remembered that the seeds in the brown sack were a special variety of watermelon. They almost got themselves planted in one of the flower beds.

At Least 8 Die In Home Explosion

ASBESTOS, Que. (AP)—An explosion blew to bits a two-story house in this mining and manufacturing center. Firemen reported recovering eight bodies and expressed fear more might be found in the scattered wreckage.

Police Chief Adrien Larrivée expressed belief liquid heating gas caused the explosion at 8:35 p.m. Friday. It demolished the house in the heart of this town, about 80 miles east of Montreal, and damaged two other buildings.

The blast blew the front of the house across the street, knocking down a cement wall and setting fire to two other houses.

Police said several children were believed to have been in the demolished house but that the bodies found so far have been so badly burned it was impossible to determine their identity.

The ground floor was occupied by Reynald Lambert, his wife and four children. The father was away at the time and two of the children escaped with burns.

GETS INSIDE HOBBY—The most difficult thing about collecting is finding out what you have, says mechanic Arthur Gilham, of Lakewood, Ohio. It took him a month poring through 30 books to identify correctly the 16th century suit of German horseman's armor he's wearing. Son, Arthur, holds a two-handed sword from dad's weapons and armor collection.

Algiers Moslem Sector Seethes

OAS Terrorism May Cause Uprising

ALGIERS (AP) — Moslems in the squalid Casbah of Algiers ground their teeth in despair and readied new makeshift hospitals for the victims of European terrorism.

"Swear to remain disciplined, to forsake your vengeance and your anger," urged exhausted leaders of the Moslem National Liberation Front (FLN).

"Kassaman," we swear, shouted crowds of men in tattered clothes.

"Kassaman," echoed veiled women with flashing dark eyes.

French authorities admit it has been miraculous that the Casbah's Moslems have not swept into European Algiers to seek revenge on Secret Army Organization terrorists, who are trying to provoke Moslems into a bloodbath. The Europeans hope will block Algerian independence.

Moslem Nationalist officials in the Casbah fear that if the European terrorism is not checked soon, they will be unable to hold back their aroused countrymen.

The rows of Moslem graves are getting longer in nearby El Kettar Cemetery. An average of 20 Moslem wounded are treated daily in the Casbah's three makeshift hospitals, manned by Moslem medical students and a handful of tired Moslem doctors.

Barbed wire surrounds the Casbah and the adjacent area from which most Europeans have fled in panic. Their apartments have been taken over by Moslems who fled the European areas.

Normally, 80,000 Moslems live in the Casbah. Nationalist officials say the number of inhabitants of what they call the "Greater Casbah" now exceeds 150,000.

Food trickles into the Casbah. Old Moslem women must still creep into the European city to pick through garbage pails. European gunmen find them there.

A stranger entering the teeming maze of alleys is immediately intercepted by tough young Moslem men who check documents. Foreign newsmen are directed to Nationalist officials.

The crowded streets stilled as I walked through. At the sight of my European face, fear flashed in the eyes of the children. Women moved away. Beggers whispered curses.

But no one lifts his hand at a man escorted by a Moslem.

"A friend," shouted my guide. In a Moorish cafe, men came to shake hands while someone looked for an official. Mint tea was served in tiny glasses.

"Just write the truth," they repeated.

At an administrative center duplicating machines turned out new posters in French and Arabic, calling for calm.

"Our hope is that the French authorities and the provisional executive will act immediately against terrorism," one Nationalist official said. "If they continue issuing statements without acting, we guarantee nothing."

Carpenter

White said, Carpenter performed his tasks "in an appropriate manner."

His theory was that the tracking stations thought Carpenter was confused because he was too busy—too preoccupied—at times to make the requested responses.

At Grand Turk, the psychiatrist who talked to Carpenter after he came back to earth said he didn't even think the astronaut was tired during the trip.

"Quite the opposite," said Dr. George Ruff, of the University of Pennsylvania. "I think he was quite alert on the whole flight."

So far as making decisions goes, Dr. Ruff said, people differ. Some, given 10 seconds for a decision, will make it in the first second. But Carpenter, he said, is the type who will think about it for nine seconds, considering the alternatives, before making the decision in the 10th second.

Whatever his condition on the last orbit, Carpenter was hungry, exhilarated and apologetic once he came back to earth.

As he bobbed in his life raft waiting for recovery forces to pick him up, Carpenter sampled the food from his survival kit and sipped water.

"He pulled out a bar of concentrated food and began munching on it," said Sgt. Ray E. McClure of Mt. Sterling, Ky., one of the two paramedics who jumped into the Atlantic to aid the astronaut.

As he was lifted into a rescue helicopter from the carrier Intrepid, Carpenter clutched the camera he had carried with him in his Aurora 7 capsule.

Lt. J. G. William Shufelt of Catskill, N.Y., said Carpenter told him: "I've got so much invested in this camera I wouldn't want to lose it. I went through a lot of effort to get the film."

Aboard the helicopter, said Dr. Richard A. Rink, a lieutenant colonel in the Army, Carpenter "was the most exhilarated person I've seen."

Carpenter joked with the crew and occasionally, they said, he would stretch and shout: "Wow." Aboard the Intrepid, the astronaut ate a small filet mignon and shrimp salad.

The doctors and psychiatrists at Grand Turk said that during this same period following his pioneering orbital flight last Feb. 20, astronaut Glenn felt a little nauseated, perhaps from sitting in his hot spacecraft during the recovery.

Dr. Howard A. Minners said that once on Grand Turk, Carpenter wanted to stay up late and talk.

"At one time, he said he was sorry for keeping us all up. How do you hold down a guy like this?"

Friday, America's second man to orbit the world told newsmen, "I should apologize now that it was a real cliffhanger. It kept a lot of people, including my family and people in the control center, worried. No one knew where I was, and I didn't either."

Still being debated was the reason why the Aurora 7 overshot its landing mark by 250 miles. Walter C. Williams, Project Mercury operations director, said telemetry indicated the capsule was 8 to 10 degrees off its planned attitude when the retrorockets fired to bring it out of orbit. As a result, he said, the Aurora 7 reentered the earth's atmosphere at too shallow an angle.

But at Grand Turk, Lt. Col. John A. Powers, the astronauts' spokesman, said those who think the attitude of the spacecraft was wrong are "in for some surprises" when they talk to Carpenter.

Doctors also weren't sure about the astronaut's blood pressure during the flight and just what it meant. It rose as high as 210 over 80. That means the pressure during the beat of the heart was 210 and it was 80 at rest.

While this was high, it may be only an indication of stress—perhaps the stress of excessive or elevated body temperature. It could have been caused by many things, the doctors said, and will have to be examined further.

Telemetry reports also indicated that Carpenter's temperature was between 101 and 104 degrees. But the doctors don't trust these figures. They think perhaps some thing went wrong with the measurements. While these readings were being reported, Carpenter said he was feeling comfortable.

German police Wednesday

All East German radio stations went off the air for one minute during the funeral at his home town, Glashuette.

The Communist regime has proclaimed Goering a martyr. A fierce campaign in the controlled East German press calls for punishment of his "treacherous murderers."

Western guards said the Vopos, the East German guards were showing "a very hostile attitude," apparently looking for an opportunity to avenge their dead comrade.

The British sent a stiff protest to the Soviet commander in East Berlin, Maj. Gen. Andrei Solov'yev, blaming the East Germans for the incident. But Solov'yev sent the letter back to British headquarters.

Dinsio

E. State St. in September of 1958 may be buried in the mine near Greenford on the Egypt Road. He plans to make a thorough search of the mine today.

Although the serial number on the clothes dryer has been removed, Davis says he thinks the machine can be traced through the motor number and believes it was stolen from the Edison plant. "A lot of things had been removed," Davis said. "They beat us there."

First tip to the burglary ring came when Harrison County Deputy Jerry Rogers became suspicious near Cadiz of a truck owned by George Spoonholtz being driven at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Rogers knew that Spoonholtz didn't operate his trucks at night and attempted to stop the driver for questioning. The driver wouldn't stop but finally hit a ditch and broke a tire after turning off on a side road.

The driver, Harry Chamberlain Jr., of RD 1, North Lima, was apprehended and he and Amil Dinsio, whose wallet was found on the seat of the truck, were arrested for breaking into Spoonholtz's garage and stealing the 10-ton Diamond T. truck.

District law enforcement agents then raided Dinsio Brothers Coal Co. strip mines near Greenford and Leontonia and uncovered huge catches of stolen loot. Much of the material used in the mines was stolen, officers said. Even a 50-foot coal tippie is believed to have been stolen—piece by piece—and then rebuilt.

Among the persons appearing before the committee were freedom riders, sit-in demonstrators and students.

Some criticized what they termed lack of action by the FBI, unfavorable decisions by federal courts in the South and failure of local police to protect civil rights demonstrators.

Weinberger alleged that police held him without charge for 72 hours while he was in Brownsville, Tenn., teaching unemployed sharecroppers how to earn money by making leather tote bags. He said the sharecroppers were evicted after they tried to register to vote and he went to try to help them.

He said he was forced to spend a night in jail, beaten, and his hand painfully hurt by a wrist clamp used to force him to submit to fingerprinting. He said he refused to permit himself to be fingerprinted because of what he termed the injustice of the proceedings.

He said his fingers were bent back, pants slashed and he was jabbed with what he described as a high voltage electric probe usually used on cattle to move them in stockyards. "A painful sensation," he said.

Indians Edge Senators 2-1 To Gain Tie for AL Lead

White Sox, Orioles, Angels Also Victors

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two of the big reasons it's such a cozy group at the top of the American League standing are:

1. A crafty old lefty.
2. A late-blooming veteran of eight minor leagues who's finally found a major league home at age 30.

Point No. 1 concerns Detroit's Don Mossi, who got tough when it counted, beat New York's defending world champions 5-4 Friday night and became the first lefthander to score over the Yankees this season.

Point No. 2 concerns Chuck Essegian of Cleveland, whose 12th homer of the season brought the Indians a 2-1 decision over Washington and pushed Cleveland into a share of the top spot.

With Los Angeles edging Kansas City 5-4; Baltimore taking Boston 9-5, and Chicago beating Minnesota 5-4 in the others, only four games separated the leaders and the seventh place Tigers.

Essegian, whose career read like a travelogue, may have found himself steady employment for the first time in a 10-year career as the sparkplug of the Indians.

Stops along the way included tours of duty in the Pacific Coast League, the Western International, the California League, the Texas League, the Southern Association, the Northwest League, the International League and the Eastern League. He also had appearances with the St. Louis Cardinals, the Los Angeles Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies, Baltimore and Kansas City before finally landing with the Indians.

His two hits Friday night pushed his batting average to .383, which put him in a tie with Kansas City's Manny Jimenez for the league lead.

The first was a double that set up Cleveland's first run and his homer made it 2-0, enough to offset Danny O'Connell's homer for the Senators and provide Pedro Ramos with his first victory of the year.

Mossi spread 11 hits about as well as possible and survived four Tiger errors in going the distance for the victory over the Yankees. He was in and out of trouble all evenings, but spiked the Yankee guns in the clutch, leaving 10 runners stranded.

The Tigers managed only five hits, but they included a three-run homer by Dick McAuliffe and a solo job by Chico Fernandez.

Leon Wagner bounced a single into center in the eighth and drove in Albie Pearson for the Angels' winning run against Kansas City, giving Jack Spring his third victory without a loss. Jimenez drove in two Kansas City runs on a double and his ninth homer.

Baltimore's victory over Boston was featured by Jim Gentile's two-run, 500-foot home run drive deep into the center field stands. It was Gentile's 13th and tied him for the league lead with Detroit's Al Kaline. Gentile drove in two more with a ninth inning single that iced the victory for Chuck Edwards.

A pair of triples by Al Smith and another by Nellie Fox accounted for three runs and were the big blows in Chicago's victory over Minnesota. It was the third straight loss for the third place Twins.

Rumor Persists After Chat

Yanks' GM Tells Roger To 'Swing for Fences'

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Has Roger Maris been advised by the front office to stop trying to build up his batting average and go back to swinging for the fences?

All principals in this little drama were mum on the matter today but the report persists that Roy Hanney, the general manager of the New York Yankees had a private chat with baseball's home run king and told him, in effect:

"Hey, Rog, quit going for those singles. We're paying you 70 grand to hit home runs. Remember?"

Of course, those weren't the exact words, but there was no doubt the interpretation, according to the informant.

The Yankees aren't exactly overjoyed with Rog's slugging figures, a mere seven home runs and seven doubles in 135 official time at bat. In contrast, rookie Joe Pepitone, in only 54 times at bat, has hit five home runs, three doubles and two triples.

Maris' runs batted in totals are not overly impressive, either. He's driven in 22 runs, trailing Ellie Howard and rookie shortstop Tommy Tresh in that category.

With Mickey Mantle, the other half of the homer tandem, sidelined with a pulled muscle, the spotlight on Maris is sharper than ever. Hanney is convinced that homers bring in the customers and he wants more of them from Maris.

Reds' Boss Elated With Drabowsky

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Fred Hutchinson is elated over the pitching of Moe Drabowsky, trying for a comeback with the Cincinnati Reds.

Hutch said after Cincinnati's 2-1 decision over Chicago's Cubs Friday night that the right-hander was throwing hard and well.

The Reds converted a walk and their only two hits into two runs in defeating the Cubs in their first 1962 meeting. The tough-looker was Cal Koonce, just out of college a year. It was his first defeat against two victories.

Drabowsky gained his first victory since Aug. 14, 1960—but he left the game in the ninth after hitting veteran Ernie Banks on the head just below the protective helmet.

Banks, removed on a stretcher, went to a hospital with a probable concussion.

Neither Drabowsky, who allowed five hits, nor Koonce yielded a hit until the fourth.

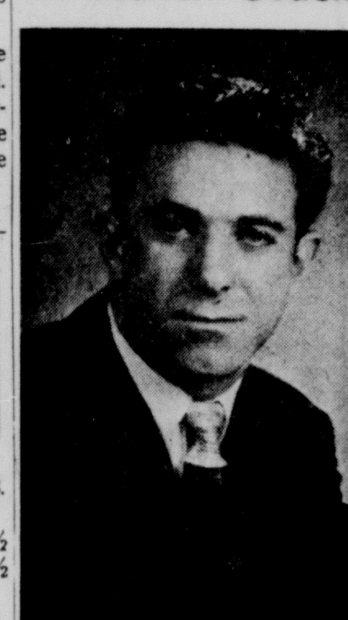

It was a break for Cincinnati that slugger Frank Robinson was in the right spot in his half of the fourth.

A walk, a single by Johnny Edwards and Robinson's double off the scoreboard scored the runs.

Robinson was batting seventh, dropped there because of poor hitting.

The Cubs scored in the fifth when George Altman hit his tenth homer.

State Track Meet Records May Fall

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If the weatherman cooperates a bit better than he did Friday, today's windup of the 55th Ohio high school track - field championships could be a record-breaking spree.

Two Class A field events were decided Friday. Ike Kelley of Bremen came up with a 52-foot 1-inch heave to take the shot put, and a 21-foot 3¾-inch leap by South Amherst's John Hemminger was tops in the broad jump.

Jim Ward of Columbiana placed fourth in the event as he recorded a leap of 20-4½, somewhat better than the 19-11¼ mark he posted in winning the event in the District meet, but less than the 20-6½ he leaped in the Columbiana County competitions.

Rain halted the Class A pole vault and Class AA discus, which were to have been completed Friday.

Hampered by wind and rain, and a track ankle-deep in water most of the time, the scholastic stars put on a mark - menacing show in Friday's qualifiers.

Dayton Roosevelt, as expected, emerged from the tests as a firm favorite to repeat as king in Class AA. At least a half-dozen schools had a chance in Class A, with the form sheet favoring defending champion Cincinnati DePorres and Columbus Academy.

A two-man duel for the most valuable trophy in Class AA was in prospect, between Toledo Libbey's Jim Goings and Trotwood Madison's Tom Wright.

Each of them had a :09.7 clocking, best of the year and third best in state meet history, in Friday's 100-yard dash.

That's the only event in which they'll meet today.

Goings matched the state meet record of :14.4 in the high hurdles, then broke it with :14.2 in the semifinals—but it wasn't allowed due to a brisk wind. He turned in a :19.5 for the low hurdles for the tops in that event.

Wright and Lodi's Bill Heffelfinger led the 220-yard dash qualifiers in :21.6, and Wright's :50.2 was the standout in the quarter-mile.

The rain also upset the tennis and baseball schedules. Golf went off as per the program, but the tennis matches were moved inside and the semifinals weren't reached until almost midnight. One baseball game, between North Bend Taylor and Lima Senior in Class AA, was to be resumed today after being halted in the middle. Niles McKinley, the state football champ, was to meet the winner for the crown later today.

Baltimore Liberty Union, winner in Class A the last two years and boasting a 46-game winning streak, was to play Van Wert Lincolnview for the smaller school laurels.

Banks 'Beamed' As Cubs Lose

Baseball's Friday
Jinx Strikes Again

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baseball's Friday jinx has struck again. The latest victim—Ernie Banks.

Banks, Chicago Cubs' homer hammerer, became the third top star hurt in a strange series of accidents on successive Friday nights when he was beamed and suffered a concussion during the Cubs' 2-1 loss to Cincinnati.

The 31-year-old infielder was knocked unconscious in the ninth inning when a pitch from Moe Drabowsky hit Banks just below his protective helmet. Ernie collapsed at the plate, was carried from the field on a stretcher and rushed to a hospital.

A spokesman at the hospital said examination showed the two-time National League most valuable player did not have a skull fracture. Banks was reported in fair condition and scheduled for further tests today.

Last Friday, Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees collapsed while running to first base and suffered a tear in a thigh muscle expected to sideline him for a month. The Friday before Minnie Minoso of St. Louis fractured his skull running into a fence while chasing a fly ball. He has been placed on the disabled list.

Meanwhile first-place San Francisco thumped Philadelphia 10-7, as Billy Pierce won his seventh without a loss, and remained 1½ games ahead of the Los Angeles Dodgers who clobbered the New York Mets 17-8. Hank Aaron drove in five runs with two homers and a double in Milwaukee's 11-8 victory over St. Louis and Pittsburgh edged Houston 4-3 in 13 innings.

Drabowsky (1-3), who allowed only five hits, was removed after he plunked Banks with the pitch and Bill Henry came on to get the final two outs. The Reds got only two hits off Cal Koonce (2-1) but Frank Robinson's two-run double in the fourth did the damage. The Cubs' run was George Altman's 10th homer.

Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda each hit home runs No. 14 to lead the Giants, although four unearned runs in the sixth contributed heavily to the Phils' loss. Mays drove in four runs with the home and a single while Cepeda picked up three. Pierce allowed 11 hits and needed ninth inning relief by Stu Miller when John Callison tagged his fourth hit, a three-run homer. Jack Hamilton (3-4) lost it.

The Dodgers ran their winning streak to five games with an 18-hit onslaught that included two six-run innings. Maury Wills, who stole three bases and scored three times, and Tommy Davis each had four hits while Larry Burright and Norm Sherry collected four runs batted in apiece. Frank Thomas led the Mets with three hits—one his 13th homer. Joe Moeller (3-4) won it with Al Jackson (2-5) the loser.

Tommy Aaron, Hank's younger brother, gave the Aaron family seven of the Braves' 18 hits, adding three doubles and a single to Hank's output. Roy McMillan and Joe Adcock also contributed homers to the attack that gave reliever Lew Burdette victory No. 1 after four losses. Ken Boyer and Carl Sawatsky homered for the Cards. Ray Washburn (3-1) lost it.

Bob Skinner's second triple and a pinch-hit single by Johnny Logan off Bob Tiefenauer (1-4) ended the 13-inning battle at Houston. Elroy Face (2-0) gained the victory with four innings of shutout relief.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

A word from
THERON at the Old Country Store

Many people are waiting to know why I have not wrote any articles about Washigtonville of late. My purpose in the matter was to warn my customers which I think I did, now it is up to them. One of our customers who is a salesman handed me his ticket, he said someone told him I would get it fixed for him. There is only one way to get that fixed and that is with cash.

I do believe that they are treating their customers with a little more respect since I started writing these articles. In a few weeks now they should be turning off the blinkers and taking down the stop signs.

JURY DEADLOCKED

LISBON — A common pleas court jury of four men and eight women was unable to reach a verdict in the trial of the Humes Truck and Trailer Manufacturing Co. of Steubenville against the Salineville Feed and Supply Co., Friday afternoon.

The Humes firm claimed that in 1955 it contracted to fix a truck belonging to the feed company to enable the truck to haul a bigger load. Humes claimed the feed company still owes them $400. The feed company said the job was not satisfactory and asked $1,323 for loss of service of the truck, claiming the vibration was so great it had to haul smaller loads.

The trial began Wednesday before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp who excused the jurors after they told him they couldn't reach a verdict.
